Headline:
Mostly dry with sunny spells. Turning unsettled midweek.

Today:
After a cold start, it will be a largely dry day with variable cloud and sunny intervals. A small chance of patchy rain developing in the north. It will feel pleasant in any cloud breaks and winds will remain light. Maximum temperature 10 deg C (50 deg F).

Tonight:
A generally dry evening with patchy cloud and clear spells overnight. It will be cold with light winds allowing for localised frost to develop under any clear skies. Minimum temperature 0 deg C (32 deg F).

Tuesday:
Patchy light rain may affect the north and west during the morning, then a dry but cloudier day for all. Winds will increase overnight with heavy rain across the region. Maximum temperature 11 deg C (52 deg F).

Outlook for Wednesday to Friday:
Wet and windy on Wednesday. Sunshine and frequent blustery showers on Thursday and Friday. Strong winds with a risk of gales developing for a time.
